He who fears death or is unwilling to die is not a Christian to a sufficient degree; for those who fear death still lack faith in the resurrection, since they love this life more than they love the life to come... He who does not die willingly should not be called a Christian.

Martin Luther

The very radiance of the glory of God, holiness itself, became a man – no, became a baby. Holiness drew in the stench of animal dung with his first breath. He lived in the skin of a peasant. He associated with people I don't like. He was executed as a criminal. Indeed, to “be holy as he is holy” is to condescend and be present among the worst of this world.

Kenner Beckley

Enemy-occupied territory is what the world is.
Christianity is the story of how the rightful King has landed, you might say in disguise, and is calling us all to take part in His great campaign of sabotage.

C.S. Lewis

We therefore put our hope in You, Lord our God, to soon behold the glory of Your might in banishing idolatry from the earth, and the false gods will be utterly exterminated to perfect the world as the kingdom of the Almighty (tikkum olam).
